

DR GUNJAN CHANCHALANI
Chief Intensivist,
Bhatia Hospital, Tardeo, Mumbai.
MD, FNBE, IFCCM, EDIC (Critical Care Medicine)

My name is Dr Gunjan Chanchalani, and I am a candidate for the position of West Zone Representative, for the Indian Society of Critical Care Medicine.

I have been on the fore front of teaching and academics, and am the author of the popular book 'MCQs in Critical Care medicine, published by Wolters Kluwer in 2016. I have been an invited faculty for many conferences national and international. I have represented India in SHAPE AMS, at Penang, Malaysia – a meeting of representatives of the Asia Pacific region for initiating antimicrobial stewardship in this region. I have been one of the author for Indian guidelines for use of Non-Invasive ventilation in critically ill patients. I have written many chapters in multiple books.

I am a recipient of Presidential citation award for the year 2019, from ISCCM.

My special interests are antimicrobial stewardship, infection control, mechanical ventilation, medical law and ethics.

I am enthusiastic about the growth of ISCCM in the coming years as a world leader in the care of critically ill patients. I would like to serve as your representative for the next 2 years, and provide equal voice and accessibility to all the members.